TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Linköpings universitet, (Linköping University), located in Linköping, Sweden, is a recognised state run higher education institution in Sweden. Linköpings universitet has the right to award degrees at all levels of higher education, including doctoral degrees.

The status of university is awarded by the Government to higher education institutions meeting certain criteria. The universities and other institutions of higher education for which the State has responsibility and their official names are listed in the Appendix 1 of the Higher Education Ordinance (1993:100), published at www.uhr.se/sv/Studier-och-antagning/Antagning-till-hogskolan/Hogskoleforordningen/The-Higher-Education-Ordinance

Higher education institutions in Sweden have autonomy in the organisation of studies, use of resources and international organisation. All educational activities are funded by the State.
